DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the filing of March 26, 2008. Claims 62, 81, 85, 87, 91, 93, and 96-99 have been canceled. Claims 61, 63, 82, 92, 94 and 100 are pending and have been considered below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 61, 82, 92, and 94 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nawaz et al., (5,959,621.)

Claim 61, 82: Nawaz a multi-purpose personal computer system comprising:

- a. a processor (Fig. 1: 24) for executing a computer processing instruction system (Fig. 1: 20) having a window-based operating system including a network connection system (Fig. 4);
- b. a network connection device coupled to said processor for facilitating communication, under the control of said network connection system, with an electronic network (Fig. 4); and

- c. a display device coupled to said processor for displaying, under the control of said computer processing instruction system, a computer display including a default desktop display (Fig. 3, 4);
- d. said computer display including a full default display mode for fully displaying said default desktop display (Fig. 3);
- e. said desktop display having a live component (Fig. 3: 140) for presenting on said desktop display live information (2:31-41) received from a remote computer through said electronic network;
- f. said computer processing instruction system further including a live-information-display component for causing said live component to be regularly situated on and be displayed as an integrated full-default-display component of said default desktop display (Fig. 2), and be displayed to a user whenever said computer display is instructed to be in said full default display mode (Fig. 3);
- g. said live information being represented by live information data received from said remote computer, said live information data having text format data type and including textual data pertaining to textual, logical, or numerical description of a live or recently occurred event (2:31-41)
- h. said live information being associated with an online account (Fig. 13: 232, "Server Personalization Data" saved with the Smart Server, Fig. 13: 228) of said user.

Claim 92, 94: Nawaz discloses the computer system as set forth in claim 61, wherein when there is, on said display device, one or more application windows opened or launched containing display content or graphic user interfaces of one or more user-activated application programs respectively (Fig. 3: 108), each one of said application windows having more than one distinct window-display modes pertaining to size of display area thereof on said display device, including a minimize mode (Fig. 3: 110) for reducing said each one of said application windows to a button or an icon view, and when said computer display is in said full default display mode, said each one of said application windows is or shall be caused to be in said minimize mode (8:1-13.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 63 and 100 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nawaz in view of Vong et al., (2002/0085045.)

Claim 63, 100: Nawaz discloses the computer system as set forth in claim 61.

However, Nawaz does not explicitly disclose, wherein said live information pertains to number of emails received, and wherein said live component includes a graphical icon, image or display of one or more mail envelopes or postcards, for indicating that said live component pertains to electronic mails or communications, and graphical display of a number for representing said number of emails received. Vong discloses a control panel for a computing device that display live information, such as the number of emails received (Fig. 12B: "12 new messages"), and wherein said live component includes a graphical icon, image or display of one or more mail envelopes or postcards (Fig. 12B, envelope icon), for indicating that said live component pertains to electronic mails or communications, and graphical display of a number for representing said number of emails received (Fig. 12B: "12 new messages.") Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a known feature of numerical count of emails received to improve similar devices of Nawaz and Vong in the same way, so as to yield a predictable result.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 3/26/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

7. Applicant's argument that "Nawaz et al. does not teach that the information displayed within the hypertext viewer (140) pertains to any of the user's "ONLINE ACCOUNT", has been fully considered but is not persuasive. Figure 13 of Nawaz discloses Smart Server including Personalization information, indicating an online user account (Fig. 13: 228, 232.) For more detail, Nawaz directs to a co-pending application (08/760,931, US6,216,141; See Fig. 8; 11:29-59.)

8. Applicant's argument that neither Nawaz and Vong teaches employing graphical icon, image or display of one or more mail envelopes or postcard for purpose of indicating that the live information pertains to electronic communications or mails, has been fully considered but is not persuasive. Figure 12B of Vong discloses an envelope icon indicating e-mail.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
